“ I've just learned about Carrie's passing and am so sad. We were cousins and lost touch in our childhood as our families changed around us. She was always so nice, and I am reading in her tributes that the kindness continued for her whole life. She seems to have given so much to others. My condolences to her family, friends, and colleagues.

“ It was my great fortune to have known Carrie almost her entire life. We grew up on the same street and our mothers were friends. She was always the same sweet person, never any different. As she grew up she was able to help more people so that is what she did. She not only showed love and support to people with disabilities but she showed them respect and admiration. Something many had never felt or experienced. There is a huge hole in our hearts. There will never be another like her.
