Logan was a great classmate! Sarcasm and jokes were ALWAYS top priority! I will always remember his socks... and his comments when asked about his shirt: Professor: 'Logan, why did you choose THAT shirt to wear today?' Logan: Because it was on the floor close to the bed and it didn't smell" THAT was Logan! ❤️ That IS Logan

“ I work for the Microsoft Software and Systems Academy (MSSA) program as a Career Couch/Instructor. Logan joined our summer class which we conducted alongside Saint Martin's University. We provide network systems/computer training and professional development classes in order to help veterans enter the IT career field. Several Microsoft employees also volunteer their time to mentor service members and veterans who join our program. Our team and I had the pleasure of working with Logan for four months starting in May and ending just a few days before his passing. Logan graduated from the MSSA program in August 20, 2021.

The service members and veterans who join our program are driven, very capable individuals who want to better themselves, and of course, Logan was not exception. I was able to meet Logan at a personal level as a career coach, and I saw a great, young man. I know he had struggled finding his place in this world professionally speaking, but he was excited to start again. We both were excited about the possibilities a new career was going to bring him. He was smart and an honest, forthright person. He was sarcastic, but that's something we both shared, so I actually appreciated that about him.

Our class and his mentors were in shock when we heard the news, and many expressed their sadness, as well as some of their memories of him with me. On behalf of Microsoft, and the MSSA class LAC39, our condolences go out to his parents, family and friends. Logan Paré, you will be missed.

“ Logan and I met at the airport on a study abroad trip in college and became immediate friends. I will never ever forget our trip to Ireland together and will hold the memories even closer than before. I am truly heartbroken to hear of his passing and was looking forward to reconnecting with him on the west coast. Logan was an amazing friend. My heart is with his parents, family and everyone who knew him. May he rest peacefully.

“ One thing I can say about Logan was his ability to see the irony of a situation and make it humorous. He could also see my frustrations and throw a joke or two out there and bring me back from where ever I was mentally. Although we started the class as classmates, we graduated as family. My friend and brother will be missed. Rest well. God Bless.
