

Miriam R. Freeman

November 10, 2012

Miriam R. Freeman, 89, passed away peacefully on November 10, 2012, surrounded by her loving family. “Mickey” was born in Somerville, NJ to parents Mina and William Bearman, and married her sweet-sixteen date, Marvin, in 1943. She spent much of her adult life between New London, CT and West Palm Beach, FL, with her last few years in Bloomfield, near family. Anyone who knew her knew how immensely proud she was of her family, and in her later years, loved nothing more than doting on and talking about her great grandchildren. Miriam enjoyed the theater, crossword puzzles, traveling, golf, Wheel of Fortune, and hunting for a bargain; she had impeccable taste, and was a cook and hostess second to none. She was the beloved wife for 69 years of Marvin L. Freeman; the deeply cherished mother of Marjorie L. and Burt Seiferheld, and the late Andrew J. Freeman; the devoted sister of Eleanor Brodsky; the loving grandma of Stacy L. and Kelvin Schleif; the immensely adored nana of Aliza and Levi; and the dear aunt of Adrienne and Jeff Berkman, and Mitchell and Mingwha Brodsky. The family wants to thank her team of providers, who helped ease her way in a most difficult year, allowing her to continue enjoying life to its fullest extent. Contributions in her memory may be sent to the Kravis Center for the Performing Arts in West Palm Beach, or by planting a tree in her name through the Jewish National Fund. The family will be remembering and celebrating her life at 30 Braintree Drive in West Hartford on Monday and Tuesday from 12-6p.m. Molloy Funeral home has care of arrangements.
