“ Julie, I am so so sorry. Can't believe it, poor Mary. Please get in touch when you can. We go back a long way and for both Freddie & Bobby to go so early, it's hard to understand. If there is anything I can ever do , please let me know

“ Growing up in White Plains, New York, with Frank Julie's brother who I have known since fifth grade sounds like ancient history now that I am telling it. Living down the street from Bobby and Fred and Mary back in the 60's and 70's seems too much like a dream to even recall.

A couple of years ago when I found out that Julie and Bobby had moved here to CT, I knew I had to see them. And I did. We met for dinner. Bobby and Julie met my wife Patty. We talked about the old neighborhood and my still best friend.

Let me leave you with this thought: Remember the good times. I remember how much Bobby loved Julie. How they were always a loving couple. I remember the Ford Cortina that Bobby drove to pick Julie up in. I remember a classmate of Julie's named Layla. She gave me a ride in her sportscar when they were all in college at the time. I was still in High School.

I have been blessed with knowing Bobby. I have these friends. Remember the good times. Keep the memories. They help with the pain.

Love always,##imported-begin##Peter Rocco##imported-end##
